Examples of Metrics

Note these are examples of metrics to enable bidders to think about the types of metrics that would work best.

1. Community engagement and participation
   - Percentage of residents from target neighbourhoods actively participating in activities.
   - Number of new connections formed between residents of different backgrounds.
   - Increase in diversity of participant demographics (age, background, socioeconomic status).
2. Capacity for replication and adaptation
   - Number of neighbourhood-level solutions developed that are adopted by other groups or neighbourhoods.
   - Feedback from communities on ease of replicating activities and adapting solutions to new contexts.
   - Quality and usability of learning materials or toolkits created from successful solutions.
3. Systems change and neighbourhood solidarity
   - Evidence of strengthened neighbourhood networks and cross-cultural collaborations.
   - Qualitative feedback indicating increased trust, cohesion, and solidarity within neighbourhoods.
   - Instances where residents influence local decision-making or advocate for resource allocation.
